II. APPLICATION INSTRUCTIONS

1. PEAK ADMISSION POLICY

The University of Tokyo’s Programs in English at Komaba (PEAK) seek to admit a select number of students who exhibit intellectual curiosity and the potential for leadership. In line with the university’s initiative to establish an international campus and nurture global citizens, students are also selected according to their ability to contribute to the diversification of the campus with their cultural experiences and educational backgrounds.

PEAK consists of the International Program on Japan in East Asia and the International Program on Environmental Sciences. The aim of these undergraduate degree programs is to share the rich intellectual and educational resources of the university with the wider global community. All classes are taught in English, but students also have the opportunity to study the Japanese language during their studies.

Students in the Japan in East Asia Program gain an international and interdisciplinary understanding of East Asia’s past, present and future, with a particular focus on Japan. The program encourages students to develop skills and knowledge in order to foster constructive dialogue within East Asia and around the world. Students are expected to actively engage with the educational resources and cultural environment at the university.

Students admitted to the Environmental Sciences Program study this complex field from an interdisciplinary perspective, which include the environmental, economic, ethical and legal. They also learn about biodiversity conservation, geochemical cycling, geophysics and the latest environmental technologies from an advanced scientific and engineering perspective. The primary aim of the program is to nurture well-rounded environmental specialists who can design and implement integrated approaches to current and future environmental concerns.
2. ELIGIBILITY

Students are eligible to apply for PEAK as long as they satisfy Requirement 1, Requirement 2, AND Requirement 3.

If applicants are unsure about their eligibility, they should contact the PEAK Undergraduate Admissions Office through the web Inquiry Form available from the PEAK website (https://peak.c.u-tokyo.ac.jp/l2/contact_us.html) by October 14, 2022.

Applicants may NOT have multiple applications to the University of Tokyo being considered at the same time. This includes all other undergraduate entrance examinations such as general admissions and the special class 1 or 2 screenings.

Please check Appendix 1 carefully and arrange submission of the score by the application deadline. They will be required to upload a confirmation on their online application page, to prove that they have arranged the scores by the deadline.

Applicants should take a screenshot of the confirmation page (the page which appears when they arrange their score report). They will be asked to submit this screenshot. - Specific requirements for each accepted standardized examination are different. Please refer to and follow the list in Appendix 1.
• If applicants take SAT or ACT after January 2021 and cannot take SAT subject test or AP subject tests by the application deadline, the above subject requirements may not be applicable. Please check Appendix 1 for the specific requirements.

Predicted Scores/Grades

• Applicants unable to submit an official result report by the application deadline because of unavoidable circumstances (for example if the examination is scheduled only after the application deadline) must submit a certificate of official predicted scores/grades (either as a part of the school transcript or as a separate certificate) for each subject.

• Regarding international qualifications on pages 29-32, predicted scores are not accepted for SAT, ACT, and AP.

• Regarding national qualifications on pages 33-35, applicants should ask their school or the examination board if they can provide official predicted scores/grades by the end of the application period. If they cannot provide them by then, applicants must take one of the international qualifications and receive the scores by the application deadline.

• The applicant must promptly supply the final scores/grades once they become available.

• The procedure for cases where schools will not disclose their predicted grades to students will be announced in early November.

Examination Results

• Although applicants are required to submit only one type of examination results, if they have taken more than one type of examination (such as ACT, SAT and IB), they are encouraged to submit these as well. They can submit such additional scores only if they can provide the official certificates of the results of standardized examinations that fulfill the requirements.

• Applicants need to fulfill the minimum requirements in Appendix 1 with one of the standardized examinations listed.

• Applicants may submit the result of SAT or ACT taken in December, but acceptance of the scores cannot be guaranteed if the scores are not officially released by the application deadline.
